Based in Chicago, Tobin Rock is committed to inspiring us to consider the world we live in. “As an artist, songwriter, musician, etc., you should write, speak, and create from whatever inspires you. As there is so much crazy going on the world right now, I feel committed to attacking social issues and confronting what is really affecting or challenging us all. It is so inspiring to come together and create music with top talent from around the world and embrace the potential of international collaboration.”

Through 2021, Tobin Rock will be releasing a new single every six weeks and working with the home band in Chicago to prepare for an upcoming live tour.
